The Mayor of Sandwich and Speaker of the Cinque Ports, Terry Clifford-Amos, was a special guest at east Kent's big dig, where ancient artefacts are being unearthed in Britain's largest archaeological dig. The excavation is part of a major BBC2 documentary called Digging For Britain, to be aired in August.

BY NICK AMES

A TELEVISION documentary to be broadcast this summer will contain details of Britain's largest archeological excavation, which is looking into lives of the past inhabitants of the Sandwich area.

The Mayor of Sandwich and Speaker of the Cinque Ports, Terry Clifford-Amos, was among the guests at east Kent's big dig, which is excavating sites for artefacts dating back thousands of years.

He toured the site just outside Sandwich during an open day and borrowed a pickaxe where volunteers were working in a trench.

The excavation is being recorded for a BBC2 documentary called Digging For Britain. It is due to be broadcast in August.

The local area contains the remains of Roman settlements as well as their fields and track ways. There are also Roman and Saxon cemeteries, Saxon buildings and a large Saxon enclosure with huge quantities of shellfish, evidence of the preparation of a feast or processing later provisions.

More recent finds include the remains of trenches excavated to defend Manston airfield during the Second World War.

Kent County Council principal archaeological officer Simon Mason said the area was the gateway to England in ancient times.

He said: "It's no surprise that this dig has unearthed so many valuable remains. What is impressive is the story it tells us about how people were living here."

The dig is the UK's biggest this year and has attracted more than 100 local volunteers.

Biggest-ever ferry heading for Channel

BY GARY WRIGHT

in Finland

THE largest ferry ever built for the cross-Channel Dover-Calais route was launched yesterday (Tuesday) in Finland.

The 49,000-tonne Spirit of Britain slipped into the waters of the Baltic at the port of Rauma to applause from assembled dignitaries, including the top staff of operator P&O.

The vessel will be trialled at sea in November and is due to come into service in January 2011.

As she cleared the shipyards, work started on her sister vessel the Spirit of France - with a timehonoured ceremony in which a coin is embedded in the hull to bring good luck.

The total cost of both ships was 360 million euros.

The Spirit of Britain is 213 metres long and 31 metres wide the largest dimensions which allow her to manoeuvre in the confines of the Port of Dover in quick time and without the use of tugs.

Her design means she can carry twice the tonnage of smaller ferries without using any more fuel.

Captain David Miller is set to assume the role of Senior Master of the new ship, which will have space for 1,000 cars.

He started out on the Dover-Calais route in 1980 on the Spirit of Free Enterprise.

He said: "The ship was brand new as she'd only been launched a few months earlier, and at 7,951 gross registered tonnes was so huge as to represent a new generation of ferry.

"Never in my wildest dreams did I imagine that 30 years later I'd be Senior Master for a new build of the magnitude of Spirit of Britain. It's a great privilege. The smile on my face will be about as wide as the Dover Strait when I take her to sea for the first time.

"This is a magnificent vessel. I feel like a child waiting for Christmas."

The ship was constructed according to the latest principles of marine engineering using what is known as block construction, in which prefabricated hull sections are fitted with key components such as cabling and pipework.

They are then moved by tractor from their construction halls to be assembled in dry dock.

The scale of each block is in the region of 325 tonnes.

As the construction halls are protected from the weather, progress has not been interrupted other than for painting.

OUT OF HIS SKIN: Drummer Kieran Gaffney

Kieran drums up audience support during BGT final

DEAL'S little drummer boy Kieran Gaffney finished a superb third in this year's Britain's Got Talent show.

The Walmer Science College pupil, who is aged just 13, impressed judges Simon Cowell, Piers Morgan and Amanda Holden in the auditions for the ITV1 hit show.

This was his second appearance in the competition and his best showing. A regular on the Deal bands circuit with his parents – performing as Mixed Emotions – Saturday's final was watched by many of his supporters in the town's pubs.

The show has been a massive hit over recent years and many placed acts have gone on to national and international success.

High-flying acrobatic troupe Spelbound won the public vote with their most daring routine yet.

Judge Amanda Holden, 39, was so impressed she said they should open the London Olympics in 2012.

Spelbound member Doug Fordyce said: "To perform at the Olympics would be amazing.

"We now want to tour the world and let everyone know what we do."

South London dance-duo Twist And Pulse – Glen Murphy, 16, and Ashley Glazebrook, 18 - were second.

During the show, UK hip-hop artist Dizzee Rascal and comedian James Corden debuted their World Cup anthem, which is based on the Tears For Fears hit Shout.

Reunited evacuees pay tribute to host families

BY MARIJKE COX

FORMER wartime children who were evacuated from devastated coastal towns are being reunited 70 years later to pay tribute to the Welsh families who took them in.

A thanksgiving service and ceremony is being held in Dover, where on June 2, 1940, 3,000 children were marched to the train station to be sent to south Wales as the threat of German invasion drew nearer.

One of the youngsters was 12-year-old John Lockyer, now living in Hove, who was taken in by a family in the small town of Blaenavon.
"The people I was billeted to had only just heard of the death of their son in Dunkirk and, regardless of their grief, they did all they could for me," he said.

"They taught me what love was about - this is what we're celebrating. This service is to salute those Welsh people and all they did for

Now aged 82, Mr Lockyer and others from Seventy Years On, a group of people celebrating the kindness of those people during the war, decided to organise a reunion.

Former evacuees from across the country are expected to make the journey to Dover in tribute of the families who took in evacuees.

Although Mr Lockyer said there were some children who were not treated so well by their billeted families, most were lucky.

"People in Blaenavon were mostly miners liv-

"There were so many people evacuated from these areas - it was a very traumatic time," he said. "Once the evacuation of Dunkirk happened, Dover came under fire. You could hear the shells and bombs battering the roofs.

Shortly after moving to Wales, Mr Lockyer was left devastated when he was told his nineyear-old sister had been killed in a car accident.

"The family I was with really helped me get through it," he added.

The ceremony is being held on Sunday, June 6, with a thanksgiving service at St Mary's Church in Dover followed by a reception.

World Cup in the Market Square

LIVE World Cup football will now be shown on the big screen in Dover's Market Square, starting with England's match against the US on Saturday.

Earlier the town centre looked to be missing the big event after safety and noise fears, but a meeting of police, local authority and other bodies decided to allow the live football screenings.

A Dover council spokesman said: "The screen will be showing all England games, and all games broadcast by the BBC, including the quarter-finals.

"It is hoped to screen the semis and the final, subject to funding being made available, in addition to the contribution Dover District Council is making towards the early matches.

"Essential safety measures, including some road closures, will be put in place where appropriate. The area around the screen remains a restricted area for drinking alcohol."

Jonathan Ross show hosts emergency call

THE skipper of a ship in the English Channel who accidentally blocked an international distress channel led to an appeal on broadcaster Jonathan Ross's Radio 2 show.

Dover coastguard, who were on duty at the time, discovered the vessel's crew had left their microphone on, blocking channel 16 off the Kent coast, which is used for distress calls.

All coastguard staff could hear was Radio 2 on in the background, so they called the BBC, who made the appeal on Mr Ross's show during a news bulletin.

A Dover coastguard spokesman said the vessel blocked the channel for about three hours but then moved out of range as it travelled north past Deal and Sandwich and into the Thames estuary.

The spokesman said: "This happens quite a lot and we normally track down the vessel using direction finding, but in this case we could not, so we approached the BBC."

The quick-thinking coastguard officers managed to put an end to the problem - which could have meant emergency calls going unanswered.
A BBC spokeswoman said: "The BBC received a call on Saturday morning from the Dover coastguard, who asked if an appeal could be made to a boat which had left their ship-to-shore radio microphone open on the emergency channel, which was blocking anyone trying to make a distress call.

"As the boat had Radio 2 playing in the background, the Radio 2 newsreader made the on-air appeal at the next opporwhich tunity. was the midday within Jonathan Ross's show. We were happy to be of service.'

Mr Ross, pictured, who alongside Russell Brand was embroiled in the so-called Sachsgate scandal over rude comments made on air to Fawlty Towers actor Andrew Sachs, was forced in May last year to begin pre-recording his Radio 2 show 24 hours before broadcast – so the news was the only chance of the request going on air.

This decision was made to make sure his off-the-cuff comments that might have caused offence could be edited out.

Grey skies failed to prevent thousands of visitors coming to the event, which featured a series of displays looking back to the conflict of 1939-45.

Among these were replica German and British Army camps, a nostalgic tea van, wartime rations and an RAF encampment.

Included in the most popular of the demonstrations at the weekend's events - which coincided with the 70th anniversary of the evacuation of the beaches of Dunkirk - was a display of horsemanship.

Riders took on the roles of mounted members of the Home Guard who patrolled isolated areas of Britain in the early part of the war armed with words and lances.

Hundreds of thousands of death plaques, each known as a Dead Man's Penny, were sent to the families of those who died in the Great War.

The plaque would have originally been accompanied by a letter from King George V.

Mr Page said: "I don't think I've ever found anything so unique. You might find a spanner or a screwdriver, but something that has some sentiment to it is very rare to come across.

Residents of the Elms Vale area of Dover have reported a group of five men, in two vans, knocking on doors and offering to do work.

Neither van had a company name on it and one resident who called the police said he believed the men were targeting the elderly.

One woman agreed to have her chimney fixed and was given an inflated quote for the work but has since been advised by her family to turn the men away if they call again.

Police attended and spoke to the men, who said they were staying at a caravan park in Blean, near Canterbury.

The men were wearing black trousers and white shirts and were middle-aged, probably in their 40s.

They were seen on one elderly man's roof in Elms Vale Road and also with a ladder at the side of a house in Eaton Road.

There have also been reports of a group of men going door-to-door in the Capel and Ringwould areas selling dusters.

Police are advising that if householders are suspicious, they should phone Kent Police on 01622 690690.

'Removal centre is like a prison'

DETAINEES at Dover's Immigration Removal Centre are being held for too long according to a report long, according to a report.

The Independent Monitoring Board also said the number of people held for more than a year while their asylum claims were processed had almost doubled.

The report stated: "There has been little sign of progress in hastening the time taken to resolve complex cases, resulting in unacceptably long periods of detention in some cases."

Volatile

John Roper, monitoring-board chairman, said: "There continues to be a high proportion of ex-foreign national prisoners, many of whom become increasingly worried about their indefinite detention.

"Coming from prisons and being unused to the less strict regime of an IRC [immigration removal centre], it was not surprising that instances of aggressive and volatile behaviour continued during 2009."

However, the findings praised the professionalism of staff at the centre.

A spokesman for the UK Border

A spokesman for the UK Border Agency said: "It is our intention to keep the length of detention to the shortest possible period. However, in some cases, detainees themselves prolong their own detention by failing to comply with the removal process. "We have a duty to protect the public

"We have a duty to protect the public from those who may pose them harm."

In July the chief inspector of prisons Dame Anne Owers said the centre had become "more like a prison".

UK borders need to feel the force, reckons minister

IMMIGRATION Minister Damian Green has stressed the need for a dedicated border police force to bring down international crime syndicates.

The MP, who was appointed to the Home Office role three weeks ago, said just focusing on the county's borders was not enough.

Plans for a new force – forming part of the Serious Organised Crime Agency – were revealed in the Queen's Speech.

Mr Green said it would be vital in keeping UK borders safe.

"We need to crack down on international crime to help protect our borders," he said.

"The new police force would effectively combine powers that are available to the enforcement arm of the UK Border Agency. But it would be different to the agency — it would be a separate national police force."

He added: "One of the things we really want to do is establish intelligence capacity around the world."

Dover has the busiest passenger port in the world and the busiest shipping lane, so a police force of this kind could be crucial in bringing down criminal gangs trying to infiltrate borders with illegal goods.

Mr Green said: "Being able to do operations both in the UK and outside means we can crack down on this sort of crime."

Currently, juxtaposed immigration controls are in place in Kent, France and Belgium through the UK Border Agency.

The new border police force would focus on international organised crime, with particular focus on guns, illegal drugs and illegal immigrants.

Mr Green said it was too early to say how the force would work but stressed that Dover was an important focus.

"Details are yet to be confirmed. This still has to go through Parliament, so it will be another couple of years before it is set up," he said.

Officers from the Serious Organised Crime Agency are expected to join the new force.

yourlocalinterview

QUESTION & ANSWER

NICK EWBANK

How did you first become involved with the Creative Foundation?

I first came to Folkestone as the director of the Metropole Gallery on The Leas in 2001. Roger De Haan had become Chairman of the Trustees there and they decided that Folkestone's arts centre needed a whole new direction, so they recruited me and I moved here from Exeter with my wife Sarah and our (then) two small children. I think the Trustees ended up getting a bit more than they bargained for! Roger and I set up the Creative Foundation and we acquired our first property in 2003. We've now got 80, all located in the Creative Quarter.

What do you believe arts-based regeneration could achieve for Folkestone?

I think it can both change the way local people think about their town and change the way Folkestone is viewed from outside. That's already happening. The approach we've adopted combines the physical regeneration of run-down buildings with educational transformations such as the new Folkestone Academy and University Centre Folkestone and a whole range of new cultural projects such as Quarterhouse and the Folkestone Triennial.

What is it about Folkestone in your opinion that makes it so appealing?

Bettany Hughes, the TV historian, came here for the book festival a couple of years ago – she's travelled all around the world, but she said she thought Folkestone was the most beautiful place on Earth. I love the sea, the friendly people, the architecture, the green spaces, the quality of light and the views of the French coast on a clear night.

How crucial a role do you believe Sir Terry Farrell's recent seafront proposals will play?

At think the plans will play a really important part in Folkestone's future. The harbour is the reason Folkestone is here and over time it was developed into a thriving port, with attractions growing up on the shingle that had accumulated to the west. As the harbour has declined, Folkestone's link with the sea has been lost—it is important for the spirit of the town for the connection to be remade.

What has been your greatest achievement in your nineyear tenure at the Creative Foundation?

If I'm allowed to pick two things: firstly, working with university colleagues to establish University Centre Folkestone, the town's first higher-education campus, which is growing really strongly now. And, secondly, Quarterhouse – our wonderful new performing-arts centre, which in just over a year has already done so much to support local performers and bring great entertainment to Folkestone. Both these projects are long-term developments that will have a huge impact on the town over time and help to change it for the better.

Some of the foundation's work has attracted criticism. Why do you think this is and is there anything you would have done differently during your time in charge?

I think change is always difficult for some people, but almost all the residents I speak to are completely behind what we've been doing. The economic situation over the last few years has been a challenge for our tenants in the Creative Quarter, but I think we have responded as well as we could to their needs. I'm sure Folkestone is going to have a really vibrant future

What do you hope to achieve in your new role as an independent consultant on arts regeneration?

A I'd like to be able to apply some of the lessons I've learnt here to other parts of the country. Change takes time, it helps to have strong leadership and it's important to join together economic development with improvements to the social fabric of a place.

What do you like to do in your spare time?

A Kayaking, running (I'm entering the Folkestone Half Marathon) and spending time with my wife Sarah and four children.

Tell us something not many people know about you.

My mother's father was a spy.

MOORED: Patrol boat Garth is back in Sandwich

Quayside hosting an old maritime friend

THE historic Army patrol boat Garth is at Sandwich quay.

The vessel, originally designed to take part in the liberation of Europe during the Second World War, is a frequent and popular visitor to the town.

Locals and visitors alike have been welcomed on board the ship, which was launched in 1945 and is maintained by the Coastal Motorboat Heritage Trust.

Garth, which was commissioned by the Royal Army Service Corps, never saw action in the war but was used in the immediate years afterwards as a patrol boat in Italy

One of the last of its type, the ship is set to take part in commemorative and remembrance events throughout the next few years.

Is this the way ahead for east Kent housing?

COUNCIL tenants and leaseholders are being asked for their views on plans to improve their housing

A consultation booklet is being sent out to all council tenants and leaseholders across the Dover area explaining the plans and listing events to which people can come and speak to housing staff about what is being proposed.

The councils of Canterbury, Dover, Shepway and Thanet are proposing to set up an 'arm's length management organisation' which would manage day-to-day services such as repairs and rent collection, dealing with tenancy matters and tackling issues such as antisocial behav-

It would be owned jointly by all four councils. Each would be represented on the board of the new organisation, as would tenants from the four council areas.

The remainder would be made up of independent members who would bring experience to the organisation to complement those of the tenants and councillors.

By providing services in this way, the councils believe that major improvements and savings will be made.

It is estimated that at least £1.5 million will be saved over the next few years, which by law must be reinvested into improving councilhousing services.

More substantial savings should also be achieved in later years through improved repairs contracts and the bringing together of administrative services.

For the proposal to go ahead, the majority of tenants and leaseholders must support the

The consultation will run until Monday, August 16.

A project spokesman said: "The whole reason we are doing this is to create a housing service to be proud of and one that is rated among the best in the country.

"These exciting proposals will also give tenants and leaseholders more say and more involvement in how their homes are managed.

"It is important to remember that this is about how we manage our council housing. Key decisions about council housing and who is allocated a council home will still be made by the local council."

The proposals form part of wider plans to share council services across east Kent.

BY NICK AMES

SOME 100 Rolls-Royce cars along the seafront, mock-up Napoleonic War battles and a fireworks display from the Prince of Wales Pier were among the highlights during a weekend of celebration in Dover.

Despite a poor weather forecast and early mist, thousands turned up for the display.

The Rolls-Royce Wings and Wheels marked the 100th anniversary of the first non-stop return flight across the channel, by Charles S Rolls, and featured a programme of free events.

The main celebrations started at 10.15pm on Saturday with a fireworks and pyrotechnic

The remaining events focused on the Sunday and included up to 100 Rolls-Royce cars, the earliest dating back to the 1920s and 30s, displayed from noon on the seafront by the South Eastern section of the Rolls-Royce Enthusiasts Club.

Charles Rolls's only surviving car, an 1899 Panhard Levassor, was also on display, courtesy of Norfolk Museum Service

Just after midday a ceremony was held at the newly-renovated Charles Rolls statue, where Dover council leader Bernard Butcher praised the inventor as "an inspiration".

His speech was followed by an address from Dover mayor Sue Jones, who said how proud the town was of its heritage.

FA rewards the unsung heroes

WHILE players, managers and even referees can dominate the headlines in football, one group of people which keeps the whole show on the road is often overlooked.

At grass-roots level, organised football simply could not happen without the dedication of an army of volunteers working behind the scenes. Selflessly giving up their free time so others can enjoy the game, they are the glue that holds everything together.

It is an issue the FA is attempting to address through community awards which look to recognise these unsung heroes.

One example is Mark Rogers, who won Kent's Outstanding Contribution To Community Football prize last month for his work as secretary at the Sheppey Sunday League.

In his four years in the role he has helped transform the league's fortunes.

Mr Rogers said: "You do it because you love what you're doing. I didn't think I was doing anything special. "I'm passionate about grass-roots football. It can be like a part-time job, but you get out what put in."

Lee Suter, football development officer at the Kent County FA, put the volunteers' dedication into perspective.

He said: "They are superb and tireless. You can't put a value on their contribution – without them we would struggle.

It's not just ex-players giving something back. A group of teenagers in Kent is involved in the FA Leadership and Volunteering Programme, with Bradley Pay among the first to put in 50 hours.

The 16-year-old said: "I love football and want to be involved as much as I can. I get a lot of happiness out of seeing the kids I coach enjoying themselves."

It's fact: healthy meals don't need to be boring

BY JAMES ALEXANDRE

HEALTH and social-care students at the Marsh Academy had a practical lesson in healthy eating when they took part in a Food Matters cooking event.

The session, led by Shirley Waters, aimed to teach those from year 9 how to be creative in making nutritious meals without compromising on taste ing on taste.

Pupils were shown how to make snacks such as crispy-cheese tortilla, fruity pasta salad and quick-smoked mackerel paté; they particularly enjoyed the tasting sessions at the end of each demonstration.

The session was organised as part of a unit dedicated to diet and health within the health and social-care BTEC.

As well as practical demonstrations, students learnt about the Eat Well Plate, which shows what proportions of different food types make up a healthy diet, and discussed the Change 4 Life campaign, making recipes from the Change 4 Life website.

Health and social-care course-leader Janet Thomas said: "The lesson was a fantastic chance for students to see how easy it is to eat healthily. Almost all of the students tried – and enjoyed – something they'd never tasted before, so they really saw that healthy eating doesn't have to be boring."

After the session, Ms Waters congratulated pupils on their participation in the lesson, saying they were a credit to their teachers.

The Marsh Academy was awarded Healthy Schools status in December 2009. The National Healthy Schools Programme aims to raise standards of health and achievement throughout the school day, including outside lessons.

The programme was launched as a joint initiative between the Department for Child-

A2 Neanderthal finds could now change history

BY CHRIS MURPHY

A NEW discovery suggests that Neanderthal man returned to Kent after being forced out by a fierce environment much earlier than previously thought.

It was always known that Neanderthals had lived in Britain before retreating to mainland Europe during an ice age 200,000 years ago, but a fresh find of flints shows they came back much earlier than previously thought.

Neanderthal man lived in Europe for 260,000 years. Scientists had believed the ancestors of modern man arrived in Britain about 65,000 years ago.

But this find means they may have to revise their time-frame.

The flints are waste flakes from the manufacture of unknown tools probably used to cut up animals for food.

A University of Southampton archaeologist and the group Oxford Archaeology spotted evidence that Neanderthals were living in Britain at the start of the last ice age.

Commissioned by Oxford Archaeology, the university's Dr Francis Wenban-Smith discovered two ancient flint handtools at the junction of the M25 and the A2.

They were found during a Highways Agency excavation and mean that Dartford could have been founded by the Neanderthals.

Tests on sediment burying the flints show they date from some  $110,\!000$  years ago, proving Neanderthals were living in Britain at this time.

Until now, it was believed Kent and all of the UK was an empty wilderness after the ice age forced everyone south 200,000 years ago, with Neanderthals not returning until 65,000 years ago.

Dr Wenban-Smith said: "I couldn't believe my eyes when I received the test results. "We know Neanderthals inhabited northern France at this time, but this new evi-

One theory is that Neanderthals may have been attracted back to Kent by the flint-rich chalk downs visible from France. These supported mammoth, rhino, horse and deer an important food source in subarctic conditions

Dr Wenban-Smith said: "These are people who had no real shelter – no houses, not even caves, so we can only speculate that by the time they returned, they had developed physiologically to cope with the cold, as well as behavioural strategies such as planning winter stores and making good use of fire.'

Dr Wenban-Smith said more evidence was needed to date their occupations accurately.

Other results from the project include the discovery of a woolly-rhino tooth in the flood-plain gravels of the River Darent, dated at some 40,000 years old.

Still time to award a medal to BEF heroes

We as a nation are currently celebrating the success of saving the soldiers of the British Expeditionary Force from the beaches at Dunkirk.

As we have done, to a lesser or greater extent, for many years.

It has always been a mystery to me why there was never a campaign medal struck and awarded to the veterans of the BEF.

Apparently, the Army considers the general World War Two medal, given to anybody who served in this conflict, covers the The Battle for France'

There has been a medal issued for the troops who were rescued from the beaches, but what about the 30,000 or so troops Montgomery sacrificed as a rearguard action?

Mainly the 51st Highland Division and the heroic actions of the 23rd (TA) Field Artillery, who were wiped out at St Valery.

The action in which these soldiers were engaged was never, ever emulated in any other Second World War battles involving the British Army - where, from the start, the odds were so unequal that they were not expected to survive.

The gallantry shown was never recognised by the Army as the actions of the individual troops were never reported by the officers as almost all of them were killed during the action or died later as prisoners of war.

Many Victoria Crosses would have been awarded to the heroic men of the 23rd RA, who were all TA volunteers and who stopped the Panzer tanks entering Dunkirk.

They only ceased fighting because they had run out of ammunition and serviceable field guns, and this was days after the last men had left

Their fate was to spend the entire war as POWs, apart from the ones murdered on the spot by German SS regiments.

Surely we should now show our gratitude, and at least give recognition to the odd few who are left, by awarding a BEF campaign medal for these special people who made it possible for so many to be saved.

Ian Macmillan suggests the role of the military should come under greater scrutiny

THE phrase 'sacred cow' originates from India, where the Hindu religion dictates that cattle are sacrosanct.

The military – the United Kingdom's sacred cow – appears to have carte blanche to waste money and lives in a jaw-dropping way that appears to be impervious to rational contrary argument.

As for criticism, only someone very brave or foolish would dare to go there. Someone like me perhaps.

Take the independent (ha ha) nuclear deterrent. The argument against Trident is so convincing that one feels sorry for the opposition.

It's similar to shooting fish in a barrel but, as in many matters concerning the military, winning the argument seems irrelevant.

Presumably, so the Colonel Blimps go, the citizens of the Scandinavian countries, The Netherlands, Belgium (I'm tempted to write the 'civilised' countries) must all be quaking in their boots since they don't have an 'independent nuclear deterrent'.

Poor so-and-sos, they spend money on hospitals, schools and so on, rather than on defence.

And there is an even more Orwellian word. Defence, I mean.

Seventy years ago, brave men really did defend this country and I, a few months old at the time, acknowledge the debt that I owe them.

That is the last time the military defended us. Since then, it has been involved in failed attempts to hang on to the Empire or in obeying orders from Uncle

Sam, and if anyone mentions either the Falklands or Northern Ireland I'd simply point them in the direction of an atlas

Can we at least call this pointless waste of lives and money 'offence' rather than 'defence'? Aggression even? All Osama bin Laden wanted was for the West to get out of Moslem lands.

So far so unpopular, but what about the soldiery? Even the peace camp near Parliament claims to be against illegal and pointless wars but is happy to support the troops, aka 'our brave lads'

I am a father and a grandfather. I can only imagine the pain of the parents of the soldiers killed in action. As a victim of a severe road accident in 1979, I can also empathise with the injured soldiers.

As for a career involving killing strangers on behalf of our pathetic government (what soldiers do), I beg to differ from the conventional opinion.

One doesn't have to be religious to believe that killing is wrong, and personally I see no difference in moral terms between the state-sponsored variety or the private equivalent more commonly known as murder.

And, as for making life safer here, domestic terrorism is fuelled by our ill-conceived involvement

Finally, as far as soldiery is concerned, following the Nuremberg trials after the Second World War, obeying orders was not an acceptable defence.

If there is a story in your area you think we should be covering, contact the editor, Dave Mairs, on 01303 817022, or email him on the details above. If you want to be the next blogger, then all you have to do is submit an article to us (of about 550 words) and email it to the editor. And don't forget, for all the latest news and video from your town, log on to www.kentnews.co.uk.

This surprised me a little, but I duly paid my money only to be told that all the tours of the tunnels had gone, at 1.30pm.

So now I had the pleasure of paying more to see less. As the whole point was seeing the tunnels, we came away, but how many others had turned up to see the tunnels with four-and-a-half hours to go to be told 'pay more, see less'?

Being a councillor and representing people, I feel that this is a) not fair and b) not fare.

Being a Dover Greeter, I would have been horrified to show people around and be told that you can go in but can't see what you came to see.

I called the Dover Castle number to voice my complaint to be told by a well-rehearsed voice that the tours are timed (I knew this) and they are leaving every 10 minutes.

The question was 'Why?' On the way back to town, I bumped into a friend of mine who works at the tourist office who told me they have many complaints from people who go to the castle and don't get the chance to see the tunnels - and they ask about their money back.

Surely the management at Dover Castle and English Heritage could and should step up operations where the tunnels are concerned.

Surely if something is not available, reduce the prices rather than keep them high. It is wrong to tell people what they can't see once you have their money.

Cllr John Goodwin (Labour) Dover District Council

Coalition had better make the most of it

It's almost one month since the general election that was meant to clean up the Palace of Westminster and restore our faith in democracy, but as yet nothing has changed.

Business goes on in the same arcane old way - only the floor managers have changed.

The State Opening of Parliament as usual had more costumes and flunkery on display than in the whole of the West End of London and enough ermine to give the World Wildlife Fund an apoplectic fit. No urgent cutbacks in this expensive charade.

Then the coalition government, in its hastily-cobbled-together agreement, promised a reduction of 50 MPs while in the very same breath creating more than 50 new Lords from among its financial backers and a motley collection of former Members of the House of Commons, more famous for their two Jags or fiddled gardening expenses than their achievements for the country.

Finally, to see out the month in grand ignominy, not just one, but two. Chief Secretaries to the Treasury, fresh from sharpening their axes to cut billions in taxes, were forced to excuse themselves for over-claiming on their expenses or evading liability for capital gains tax on their second homes.

All this in less than a month from a coalition government that promised to clean up politics once and for all, reform the voting system and the House of Lords create the Big Inclusive Society and give power back to the people.

No wonder David Cameron and Nick Clegg want a Parliament fixed for five years. At the rate they are going, five weeks, let alone five months, is time enough to show everyone how shallow their promises are and how little is set to change in the Palace of Scandals.

Guy Fawkes was perhaps not so misguided after all. Just a few centuries before his time?

Religion has power but for what good?

Picking up on Clive Wilkins-Oppler's letter in last week's newspaper, it seems to me that if God made man, rather than the other way round, there would be only one religion.

I know he is alleged to move in a mysterious way, but I can see no reason that, if he exists, he would influence some to be Christian and believe Jesus was his son; some to be Moslem and believe Jesus was merely a prophet; and Jews to be believe neither and still await the promised Messiah.

And this is to say nothing about what Hindus believe or to touch on the South Sea Islanders who worship a fridge-freezer or, indeed, those who revere Prince Phillip.

Clearly nonsense, but there remains the question of whether religion is a power for good. Let me put it this way.

Were it not for religious Jews maintaining God promised them the land, there would be no illegal settlements by Israelis in Palestinian lands.

Were it not for Islamism, there would be no Hamas, no Taliban, no atrocities such as what was inflicted on Mumbai and so on.

Religion a power for good? I beg to differ.

All stacked against the first-time buyers

It's a good idea for cash to be made available to local authorities to bring houses back on to the market, but will they be made available for those who really need them?

At the moment the housing market is on the up, which is good news for those who possess properties

But it is not so good for those people who want to try to get on the housing ladder.

So when these homes are made available, they should be at a price that is accessible for first-time

Although the football season has just finished and the World Cup not even started, as a long-term Hythe Town supporter I'm already looking forward to the 2010-11 season.

The addition of Lee Shearer is a good start and with other names in the frame let's hope that a new forward line can be put together.

Roll on Tuesday, July 20 - the first pre-season home game and we can start to see how the team shapes up.

Lift repair needs to be up and running

It's good to hear that the Leas lift is about to be bought back into operation. But I have not seen any work going ahead to bring forward an opening date.

Surely the summer is the time it should be available. It's no good waiting to November.

Awaiting the knock

We saw an awful lot of politicians competing for the Dover and Deal seat in the run-up to the election.

Now Charlie Elphicke has been elected, will he still be knocking on doors asking for local opinion? I would love to think 'yes'. But I BUDGET cuts at the Department for Transport could hamper the chances of the £16 billion Crossrail project being extended into Kent.

Last week Transport Minister Theresa Villiers warned she was looking for "value for money" in the scheme, prompting fears that several proposed stations may be scrapped.

Current plans for the new 74-mile network see it running from Maidenhead in Berkshire to Abbey Wood in London and Shenfield in Essex, with stops throughout the capital, including at Heathrow.

Kent County Council and former Labour MP for Dartford Howard Stoate were hopeful the project could also be extended into the north of the county, but this now appears less likely given that stations included in the original plan - including Maidenhead and Abbey Wood - are now under threat amid reports of the new Tory government seeking a £5bn saving. Despite the proposed cuts, Dr Stoate's Tory successor Gareth Johnson said he was not giving up on the idea just yet.

He said: "I would deeply love to see Crossrail

Hopes of Crossrail sharpen costs axe

CUT OFF: KCC's hopes to link Ebbsfleet with Crossrail have taken a dive Crossrail is the UK's biggest transport project since the Channel Tunnel, with the first trains due to run on the line by 2017.

Gridlock

The scheme is included in KCC's 'growth without gridlock' transport strategy, which states the authority is "keen to see the route extended to Gravesend with good interchange at Ebbsfleet International".

However, Nick Chard - cabinet member for environment, highways and waste - declined to comment on speculation about the project

Former transport secretary Geoff Hoon raised the possibility of Crossrail reaching Kent when he accepted an invitation from Dr Stoate to visit Dartford in March last year. He said at the time: "Howard has pressed me hard on the question of Crossrail and the extension to Ebbsfleet. We have preserved the route and made it a possibility, and I'm certainly not ruling it out."

extended right to Ebbsfleet, but it's going to come down to costings quite frankly because we've got to sort out the financial deficit.

"There are lots of negotiations going on at the moment and the finer details of the operation are still being worked on.
"I'd be surprised if there was announcement soon that Crossrail will be extended into north Kent, but we hope it's still a medium-term goal and it's something we will continue to pursue."

Family to sue negligent hospital over young mother's death

A WIDOWER whose wife died when a hospital's treatment of her fell woefully below what would be expected is taking legal action.

Donna Maben, 33, died from septicaemia at the William Harvey Hospital, near her home in Ashford.

An inquest was highly critical of her treatment and care, and now husband Ian has instructed lawyers to fight for compensation.

Solicitor Sarah Harman said she confirmed the litigation.

She said: "The family are taking legal action. The trust has admitted liability and we are negotiating."

Asked when the case would be going into court, she said: "When you are negotiating, you are not quite sure."
Donna died on May 11, 2009.
The mother of a baby had been admitted to hospital on Wednesday, April 21, suffering from abdominal pains and yet was discharged just three days later. She collapsed in agony two weeks later and was finally given surgery on a twisted bowl that had gone gangrenous. But by then it was too late for her.

The coroner was horrified at the circumstances of the death. Rachel Redman, who recorded a narrative verdict, said delays in operating and confusion over her treatment led to her death and she wrote to Stuart Kent Hospitals University NHS Foundation Trust, with her concerns.

Donna's distraught husband Ian said: "They [the hospital] just weren't giving her the treatment you'd expect. Simple things - a lack of fluids – even me, not being medically trained, know that if you're taking in two litres of fluid and three litres of fluid are going out that's not a good thing.

When the damning verdict was announced, Steven Pompeus, of East Kent Hospitals NHS Trust, said: "The trust would like to take this opportunity to apologise unreservedly for Donna's death.

The trust fully accepts the verdict of the coroner and would like to reassure the public that changes have already been implemented to ensure the same tragic outcome does not happen again.

BILLY ELLIOT

Monday, June 14, to Saturday, June 19, Granville Theatre, Ramsgate

A YOUNG boy battles against the odds to follow his dream in the hugely popular musical, Billy Elliot.

Stage Door Theatre Company presents the show in collaboration with Billy Youth Theatre, a new initiative which gives local companies the chance to perform the international awardwinning musical.

Set during the miners' strike of the 80s, Billy Elliot follows the story of a boy who discovers dance and dreams of a stage career. But growing up in the north-east, he faces the disapproval of his family and fears that his desire will never be realised.

This story of hope and the potential of us all to live creatively fulfilling lives has been an enormous success. As part of the initiative, Stage Door's director Heidi Moran and musical director Edward Greenhalgh took part in a workshop with the people behind the successful London production. There is the possibility that the show could be staged at a major regional theatre and even be performed at the Billy Youth Theatre West End Gala in July.

To book tickets, call the box office on 01843 591750.

Wheatus to play extra night, fact

TEENAGE DIRTBAGS: US soft-rockers Wheatus will be at The Forum this month

BY SIMON ROBINSON

LIFE is all about learning, so I'm told, and every day we're bound to learn something new.

Sometimes the new information is interesting, quirky or random enough to be deemed worth sharing with colleagues, loved ones or guests at dinner parties.

The feedback from such outbursts is often varied.

For instance, did you know that Mel Blanc, who provided the voice for Bugs Bunny, was ironically allergic to carrots?

If not, then congratulations, you've learned something new today. Whether you impressed by this nugget of new information is a different matter.

Either way, feel free to enlighten/bore someone else with this random trivia.

Sadly, as you get older, the frequency of interesting new information declines.

Every so often, though, a real gem will appear from nowhere.

I had the good fortune to learn something random last week, while I was scouring emails and internet message boards to find a subject for this very column. A quick click on the Tunbridge Wells Forum website revealed that - owing to huge demand - a second Wheatus date had been added to the venue's calendar. And there it was - who knew Kent had so many Wheatus fans?

Up until that point I was blissfully unaware that our green and pleasant county is home to so many Teenage Dirtbags.

It's important to remember that Wheatus have scored just two UK chart successes since starting out 15 years ago.

The American soft-rockers' hits were Teenage Dirtbag, the lyrics of which have somehow burned themselves into my mind, and A Little Respect, a pop cover of Erasure's classic single.

But who am I to judge? All that matters is that I now know that Kent has a truck-load UPLOAD YOUR MUSIC VIDEOS TO BROADCAST ON OUR WEBSITE @

Too many, in fact, to fit inside The Forum for their gig on Monday, June 21.

All of which convinced venue bosses to add a second date the following night, tickets for which are on sale now at £10 each.

continent, just an hour away

BY JAMES ALEXANDRE

ASK someone about Jersey and you may not always get a straightforward answer, such is its place in both history and geography.

The largest of the Channel Islands, it is closest to Britain in terms of culture and politics but is virtually on the doorstep of France, with much of its vocabulary derived from the Norman tongue.

What was once the centre of many battles between the two now represents the best of each country's merits, ranging from sandy beaches to outdoor activities and great eateries.

A comfortable flight time of about an hour from Lydd airport, the healthier, sunnier climate is noticeable as soon as you land, thanks to the nearby Gulf Stream.

My first port of call was St

Brelades Bay on the south side, only a few minutes' drive from the airport yet wonderfully secluded.

After a tasty, healthy lunch of crab risotto overlooking the beach, a quick walk around the picturesque church and Fisherman's Chapel gives a sense of the history that pervades this small island.

I had a particular family interest in this as my great-grandfather was a sail-maker who hailed from Jersey.

On closer inspection, I found a Nicholas Alexandre inscribed as one of the former rectors of the church, dating from the 16th Century.

There is plenty of choice for thrill-seekers, from sand-yachting to kayaking, and the daredevil in me went for the abseiling. Instructor John Fox, who runs

Jersey Adventures, was friendly and helpful, showing me how to handle the ropes as I gradually made my way down the side of one of the James Alexandre travelled with Jersey Tourism and CI Travel Group. Weekly flights depart Lydd airport July 10-September 4, at 12.50pm and 2pm, leaving Jersey at 11.15am and 12.20pm. A service runs from Manston airport (www.kentinternationalairport-manston.com). Seven-night holiday from £299 per person per week. Tofind out more, visit www.discoverjersev.com or phone 0844 4156653. Activities: outdoor pursuits (www.jerseyadventures.com), cycling (www.cycleinjersey.com), Durrell Wildlife Conservation Trust (www.durrell.org), Jersey War Tunnels (www.jerseywartunnels. com). James stayed at the Hotel de France, St Saviour's Road, St Helier JE1 7XP (01534 614000 www.defrance.co.uk) and ate at The Boat House, 1 North Quay, St Aubin (01534 744226) and Saffrons, Hotel de France many old German war forts dotted around the coast.

The picture-postcard setting of Corbiere lighthouse greets you as you make your way round the southwestern tip to St Ouen's Bay.

Its stunning beach stretches for miles, making it a surfers' paradise. The Michelin-recommended El Tico cantina is perfectly placed to make the most of the Atlantic views. A leisurely morning cycle-ride along some of Jersey's dedicated 'green lanes' is a great way to experience the countryside up close.

Blue Badge guide Arthur Lamy offers scenic tours of varying difficulty, including an introductory one that takes you from the centre of St Helier through to Gorey, home of Jersey Pottery and a great place to buy both lunch and a memento.

For families and animal-lovers, the Durrell Wildlife Conservation Trust offers a great chance to see first-hand the work being done to help endangered species.

The Jersey War Tunnels capture the impact of the five-year German occupation, where you can go through the deep underground complex.

In the administrative centre of St Helier, the Victorian and fish markets offer a chance to savour some of today's island living, together with numerous shops and cafés leading to and from the Royal Square. An exhibition on the life of Marilyn Monroe is on display at the Jersey Museum until September, while other highlights include a 19th-century merchant's house.

The four-star Hotel de France in St Helier has excellent spa facilities, and two restaurants - the contemporary Café Aroma and the fine Indian cuisine at Saffrons.

With so much on offer and to explore, Jersey is a welcome break in a climate free from the hassle of Continental travel but with the sunshine associated with going abroad.

Kickstart programme and housing projects come to a standstill

THE Homes and Communities Agency has said it will put on hold spending decisions on social-housing projects and its Kickstart programme, which invests in restarting mothballed private-housing developments.

The move comes after it emerged that £780 million of previously-agreed funding may be pulled as part of £6.2bn spending cuts announced by Chancellor George Osborne.

The HCA was told to cut £230m from its budget. The agency has confirmed this will lead to £100m being chopped from the £2.4bn social-housing programme and £50m from Kickstart's £420m budget for this year.

Recession

The department has also been told that £780m of funding for its projects is under review, with a final decision to be outlined in Mr Osborne's Budget on Tuesday, June 22.

Stewart Baseley, chairman of the Home Builders Federation, called the decisions "a cut on investment not waste"

He said: "Public money invested through Kickstart pulled in many more times than private-sector investment — which will now be lost to the economy."

The Kickstart programme was announced in last year's Budget in an attempt to bolster housebuilders who had halted housing construction in the midst of the recession

Merged providers offer a great mortgage deal

THE Co-operative Bank and Britannia have launched a new five-year mortgage at a fixed rate of 3.99 per cent.

The mortgage is available to homeowners with a deposit of at least 25 per cent.

Borrowers taking out the mortgage are required to pay a £999 fee.

The two providers, which merged last year, also announced a two-year fixed-rate mortgage at 2.95 per cent, also requiring a 25 per cent deposit and with a 1999 for

John Hughes, Co-operative spokesman, said: "Not only do these mortgages offer extremely attractive rates, they also provide customers with the added benefits of our consistently high levels of customer service."

FLASHBACK: The house-price boom is unlikely ever to return but there have been increasingly strong signs that the housing market in Britain is at last starting to pick up again

Number of buyers hots up for brighter outlook

BY NICK AMES

THE property market continued its recovery in May despite gloomy predictions that the election would deter both buyers and sellers from entering the market.

But there are signs that the rises may be levelling off to reflect a slower growth in house prices even though more people are buying compared with a year ago.

Nationwide said that house prices rose 1 per cent in April and were up more than 10 per cent on a year ago.

more than 10 per cent on a year ago. Figures published by the Department for Communities and Local Government showed house prices went up by 0.7 per cent in March, the fifth consecutive month of increases.

Lending figures were also published by the Council of Mortgage Lenders.

They suggested housing-market activity bounced back during March with a 25 per cent jump in the number of mortgages advanced to people buying a property.

Some 45,000 mortgages were lent for house purchase during the month, up from 36,000 in February.

Rightmove said a smaller increase last month suggested the past year's rise in house prices could be cooling off. It said asking prices rose by 0.7 per cent in May compared with 2.6 per cent in April, causing the annual rate of increase to slow to 4.3 per cent from 6 per cent.

Findaproperty.com showed that the average UK asking price rose for the fourth consecutive month with a 0.6 per cent rise in the past month, up to £219,748 from £218,475.

On an annual basis, average prices have climbed 1.8 per cent from £215,761 in May 2009.

The number of properties for sale jumped 8 per cent in May, the fourth consecutive month of rising stock levels in 2010.

Its survey said eight in ten people were searching for a property, pledging to continue their search despite the election and three-quarters said that the election result would not stop them buying a property.

Last week, Property For Kent reported that house prices were climbing at their fastest rate since October 2007 in year-on-year comparisons 2007 in year-on-year comparisons. Figures from the Council of Mortgage lenders showed that house prices were becoming more affordable, with the cost of the average first-time home 4.9 times the annual earnings of the household compared with 5.5 times at the end of 2008.

LETTING PROPERTY: RICS is optimistic that rents will continue to rise

Rent-recovery rise starts due to the lack of supply

THERE were encouraging signs of recovery in the letting market this week, with rents looking to begin rising again

A lack of supply is pushing residential real-estate rents higher, signalling a revival in the lettings market, according to the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors.

The net balance of chartered surveyors reporting rising, rather than falling, rents rose from zero to 30 per cent, a marked contrast to April last year, when 58 per cent more chartered surveyors were reporting falling rents, an all-time low for the survey.

n Surveyors are optimistic that rents will continue to rise, with the rental expectations' net balance climbing to 36 per cent, the highest figure recorded in the gg, survey's history.

Kent League Division One

Sibton Park 1st XI v Folkestone 1st XI

SIBTON Park moved into the Division One promotion places after an emphatic 100-run victory against neighbours Folkestone on Saturday.

The hosts were put into bat and initially enjoyed some success, with George Leadbetter and Andy Allon piling on the runs. The opening pair put on 78 for the first wicket before Michael James had Allon caught behind for 46.

The wicket triggered a mini-collapse, as the hosts lost five wickets for 19 runs, slumping to 97 for 5. Tim Bishop proved crucial in stopping the rot, dragging Sibton Park into three figures.

The number three had no fewer than six batting partners during his knock of 50 as John Champion ran through the middle order on his way to 4 for 45.

Steven Rowe (24) was the only other batsman who made it into double figures, but their score of 177 all out looked vulnerable.

Folkestone would have fancied their chances of pulling off their second win of the season, but Steven Rowe turned the game on its head with a devastating spell of bowling. Ripping through the top order, he took six wickets as the visitors went from 21 for no wicket to 37 for 6.

Folkestone never fully recovered. Jamie Dawes (27) and Michael James (12) briefly conjured a response, but the writing was on the wall and they could only limp the score along to a slightly less embarrassing total.

Tim Bishop took two quick wickets, which, along with one for Andy Allon, finished off Folkestone for just 77. They will be hoping to rediscover their form when Sandwich Town visit on Saturday, while Sibton Park visit

KENT LEAGUE DIVISION ONE Hythe 1st XI v Canterbury 1st XI

A CENTURY from Paul Steer helped Canterbury to their first victory of the season against struggling Hythe - running out winners by seven wickets. Christopher Maurice (80) and Leon Morgan (88) shared a big partnership which formed the backbone of Hythe's innings. Useful runs late on from Sam Butler (22) helped them to a respectable 241 for 6.

Canterbury lost Stuart Drakeley early on, but Neil Kimberley (62) and Steer (117 not out) batted the visitors into an excellent position. Steer was still there at the finish, which came with nine balls to spare.

Sandwich Town 1st XI v Harvel 1st XI

OLIVER Robinson hit a century as Sandwich Town romped to a crushing 183-run victory at home to Harvel.

The hosts stumbled to 7 for 3 at one stage, but a superb stand of 145 between Robinson (119) and Vishaul Singh (61) swung the balance towards Sandwich. Helped by a useful 45 from Gavin Lawrence, they reached 278 before they were all out.

Harvel never looked like threatening a successful run chase, losing wickets at regular intervals. Craig Spanton took 3 for 25, while Tom Chapman, Tom Dilnot-Smith and Matthew van Poppel chipped in to dismiss the visitors for 95

Betteshanger Colliery Welfare 1st XI v Gravesend RF 1st XI

BETTESHANGER Colliery's fine start to the season continued on Saturday as they beat Gravesend by five wickets.

Gravesend opener Meguel Dee made the most of his luck after being dropped twice, going on to make 84. The problem for the visitors was a lack of support as the hosts' bowlers struck regularly, with Darren Fletcher taking 3 for 6 to mop up the tail.

Chasing 192 for victory, most of Betteshanger's batsmen made good use of the conditions, as four players made it past 30. Gareth Friend (37) guided them home in the 39th over.

OD CUACO 1st XI v Walmer 1st XI

WALMER'S search for a first win of the season continues as they went down to OD CUACO by seven wickets on Saturday.

Gareth Meers

Batting first, only Graeme North (59) and Martin Pearce (45) could be pleased with their efforts. It was only with the addition of a generous 33 runs in extras which took Walmer's score up to a semi-respectable

The hosts' dominance continued with the bat. Connor McMillan and Daniel Giles both took wickets but the result was never in doubt, arriving after just 31 overs of the reply.

Whites sign two but Jim expects more to follow

FOOTBALL

BY TOM HOWARD

FIVE new faces are needed this summer to build a squad to push for promotion next season, according to Dover chairman Jim Parmenter.

The Whites made their first moves in the transfer market last week with the capture of former Gillingham defender Tom Wynter and Barnet midfielder Joe Tabiri.

New Dover boss Ian Hendon moved quickly to sign Wynter on a two-year deal at Crabble after the defender was released by the Gills.

The 19-year-old can play at both full-back and in the centre of defence and is familiar with the Whites after enjoying a successful period on-loan at the club last season. He won't be able to join up with the squad until August when his contract ends at Gills.

Favourite

Tabiri, like Wynter, had a spell on loan at Dover last season having made 11 appearances, and the 20-year-old joins having signed an initial one-year deal.

Parmenter said: "Joe is a really great signing. He was fantastic for us last time round and is a real crowd favourite. I'm sure he will be a crucial part of our side as we aim for promotion next season.

While two have arrived at Crabble, the future of some of last season's squad remains somewhat uncertain.

Dean Hill, Sammy Moore, Matt Fish and Jon Wallis have all yet to agree to new deals at Crabble despite having been offered new contracts before former manager Andy Hessenthaler departed for Gillingham. Parmenter told Yourdover: "I think players are recognising that Dover are a club on the up and that is why people like Tom Wynter are joining. I hope this signing does show our intentions and there are more signings on the way.

"I think we need three or four new players, maybe even five. We have got two or three players from last season's squad who have been offered a contract a month ago and are yet to sign. Jon Wallis is one of the players, but he has been away on holiday, so he is an exception and we hope to hear from him soon."

The Whites have two pre-season friendlies confirmed as they host Gillingham on July 24 and Maidstone United on July 20.

RETIRED: Invicta midfielder Jimmy Jackson

Fans full of praise for veteran Jackson

FOLKESTONE Invicta's supporters have been unanimous in their warm praise of veteran Jimmy Jackson, who hung up his boots last week.

The elegant midfielder, who played in the Conference with Gravesend & Northfleet earlier in his career, was forced to make the decision due to persistent knee injuries.

Jackson joined from Margate in summer 2008 and opted to stay on at Cheriton Road despite the club's crippling financial prob-lems. He became a crucial experienced head in an otherwise young team and played a key role in helping Invicta to promotion last season, often playing through injuries.

The club's forum has swelled with tributes to Jackson and chairman Lynn Woods said he would always be welcome at the

He said: "We have been lucky to have his services at a time when we needed someone like him. We could not have wished for more, he led and inspired the youngsters.

CONFIDENT: Karen Stupples is confident of mounting a challenge in the next two Major championships

Stupples talks of Major aspirations

GOLF

KAREN Stupples feels she is playing well enough to challenge for honours as the women's golf season reaches its most important phase.

The 36-year-old from Deal tees off in the LPGA State Farm Classic in Illinois tomorrow at the start of a five-week spell which includes two of the season's four Majors. The LPGA Championship begins on June 24, while the US Women's Open begins a fortnight later.

After the experience of leading heading into the final round at the season's first Major – April's Kraft Nabisco Championship - Stupples will go into both events with confidence.

She said: "I went toe-to-toe with the best in the world and for most of the tournament no one could match me. That felt pretty good and I was on my game. The only thing that wasn't on form was my putting, which I've been working on a lot."

Stupples' last competitive outing came two weeks ago when she came through qualifying for the US Women's Open. The event is the sport's most prestigious title and with a prize fund of more than £2.7 million, it is also the most lucrative.

Stupples said: "Honestly it's the biggest tournament we play in. If I hadn't qualified I wouldn't have watched it. I watched it just after I had [son] Logan and it was one of the driving forces to get me back quicker. I was jealous of all the girls that were playing, so it's a relief to have got through."
